Annex

Measures on Working Methods suggested for consideration by the Security Council

Relationship with the General Assembly and other principal organs

1. The Members of the Security Council should engage in an informal, interactive discussion on the annual report of the Security Council, when it is considered by the General Assembly.
2. The Security Council should submit, in accordance with Article 24 (3) of the Charter, special subject-oriented reports to the General Assembly for its consideration on issues of current international concern, including on topics such as termination of peace-keeping operations, imposition of sanctions and other enforcement measures as well as other matters of relevance to the membership as a whole.
3. More substantive exchanges of views among the Security Council, the General Assembly and Economic and Social Council should be established on a frequent basis and as a standard operating procedure. The procedures governing this interaction should be disseminated to the larger membership.
4. Regular and timely consultations between members and non-members of the Security Council should be established as part of the standard operating procedures of the Security Council.
5. The Security Council's tentative forecast of its program of work for the coming month should be made available to Member States as soon as it is available to members of the Security Council. The incoming Security Council President should hold a briefing open to the larger UN membership on the monthly forecast.
6. Where decisions by the Security Council require implementation by all Member States, the Security Council should seek the views of the Member States and ensure that their ability to implement decisions is taken into account in the decision-making process.

Implementation of decisions

7. The Security Council should explore ways to assess the extent to which its decisions have been implemented. To this end, the Security Council should establish lessons-learned groups tasked with:
 - assessing whether Security Council decisions have been implemented,
 - analyzing obstacles to implementation and reasons for non-implementation,
 - suggesting mechanisms or measures on the basis of best practices aimed at enhancing implementation.

Subsidiary bodies

8. The Security Council's subsidiary bodies should include in their work, on a case-by-case basis, non-members with strong interest and relevant expertise. Furthermore, Member States particularly affected by sanctions should, upon their request, be given the possibility to participate in the meetings of the relevant sanctions committee.
9. The President of the Security Council and the Chairpersons of its subsidiary bodies should offer informal opportunities for Member States to provide substantive input to their work.
10. The Security Council should take steps to improve the quality and frequency of formal and informal reports on the work of all its subsidiary bodies. The Security Council should in particular explore ways to increase the transparency of the work of its sanctions committees, inter alia by announcing the meetings and agenda in the Journal of the United Nations, giving substantive briefings to non-members of the Council after the meeting, and making summary records more widely and promptly available.
11. The Security Council should give states confronted with special economic problems arising from preventive or enforcement measures imposed by the Security Council the opportunity to consult with the relevant sanctions committee on a timely, efficient, and substantive basis, in accordance with Article 50 of the Charter.
12. Where sanctions involve lists of individuals or entities, sanctions committees should establish procedures, reflecting standards of due process, to review the cases of those claiming to have been incorrectly placed or retained on such lists.

Use of the veto

13. A Permanent Member using its veto should explain the reason for doing so at the time the relevant resolution is rejected in the Security Council and a copy of the explanation should be circulated as a Security Council document to all members of the organization.
14. No Permanent Member should cast a non-concurring vote in the sense of Art. 27 (3) of the Charter in the event of genocide, crimes against humanity and serious violations of international humanitarian law.

Operations mandated / carried out by the SC

15. The Security Council should ensure that all Member States are fully and promptly informed of all developments regarding its missions, including on budgetary aspects.

16. The Security Council should enhance consultations with troop-contributing countries (TCCs) and other states that are especially engaged in UN field operations, particularly when they involve risks for the deployed personnel.

Relationship with regional arrangements and agencies

17. The Security Council, in accordance with the provisions of Chapter VIII of the Charter, should enhance its cooperation and consultations on matters affecting the maintenance of international peace and security, with the relevant regional arrangements and agencies, as appropriate.

Integration of new Members of the Security Council

18. The Security Council Affairs Division should be tasked with identifying best practices employed by members of the Security Council to consult with non-members with a view to incorporate these practices into the Security Council's Rules of Procedure and into briefings given to candidates for election to the Security Council as well as to newly-elected members of the Security Council.
19. In order to facilitate the integration of newly-elected members of the Security Council, the UN secretariat should prepare and disseminate a detailed briefing packet on the procedures, practices and work of the Security Council.
